Your Itinerary in Detail

Dil Chahta Hai singlehandedly made the road-trip from Mumbai to Goa glamorous. But how about taking things up a few notches? Why not explore the picturesque, more adventurous, Arabian Sea-hugging route, instead of barrelling down straight to Goa via the NH48? That's exactly the plan we have for you. Enjoy!

Day 3 Mumbai - Harihareshwar

 Hotel Exotica Suvarna Samudra Or Similar

 Ride from the hotel in Mumbai to the hotel in Harihareshwar via Murud.

Pick up your motorcycle from the hotel and head out of Mumbai early in the morning to beat the traffic. Exit the city at Panvel and head to Alibagh, where you can make a pit-stop at the beach. Hereon, the sea will be your companion nearly all the way to Murud. You will pass the peaceful Kashid Beach, known for its crystal-clear waters. The Phansad Wildlife Sanctuary, home to leopards, barking deers, Indian giant squirrels, pythons and birds like the crested serpent eagles, too is close by. Your next stop is the Murud Janjira Fort, which is a short boat-ride away from the port-town of Murud. Although now in ruins, it once used to be a living fort with official quarters and mosques. To head further down the coast, get your motorcycle onto a ferry, which will drop you off at Dighi. Stop next at the Harihareshwar Beach which is popular for the namesake temple that's said to be blessed by Lord Shiva himself. You could stop at Hotel Amar known for its sea food, and then catch a ferry across the Savitri River. Next, we suggest that you make a pit-stop at the Fattegad Fort, rumoured to be built under the rule of Shivaji Maharaja. Continue your ride to the hotel in Harihareshwar.

Day 4 Harihareshwar - Tarkarli

 Hotel Abhiruchi Resort Or Similar

 Ride from the hotel in Harihareshwar to the hotel in Tarkarli.

Today's route snakes down the western-most part of Maharashtra, looking over the frothing Arabian Sea. The roads are slightly narrow and if you are here during the rains, slippery too, but fun nevertheless. The way is lined with forts - the Jaigarh Fort, Bhagwati Fort, the Vijaydurg Fort and the Devgad Fort in the same order and beaches that could rival anything that Goa has to offer. The religiously inclined have two major temples on the way, namely the Sapteshwar Mahadev Shiva Temple and the Ganpatipule Temple, where the statue of Lord Ganesha is believed to have risen from the soil 400 years ago. It's worth noting that you are riding down the Ratnagiri belt which, in summers, means copious amounts of juicy alphonso mangoes. So don't feel shy about getting your hands down and pulpy! Also, don't forget to enjoy the delectable Malwani seafood the region has to offer. Check in to your hotel in Tarkarli and unwind for the day.

Day 5 Tarkarli - Goa

 Hotel Regenta Resort Varca Beach Or Similar

 Ride from the hotel in Tarkarli to the hotel in Goa.

Like much of the roads until now, your route for the day is through narrow, single-lane, beach roads. The Vengurla Bandar, popular for the Devbagh Beach and the Mochamad Beach is your first major stop on your way to Goa. Further south, you'll pass the popular Tiracol Fort Heritage Hotel, and it's from here that you can catch a ferry to Querim, your last ferry transfer en route to Goa. Stop next at the Chapora Fort, the one from the movie Dil Chahta Hai, where you've always wanted to watch the ship disappear into the horizon. Further down, pass the Arambol and the Arjuna Beach; stop by the latter at the Curlies Beach Shack for some delicious Goan fair. Your next stop is at Aguada Fort and lighthouse, a 17th century Portuguese fortification that was built to defend attacks by the Dutch and Maratha forces. With that, it's touchdown in Goa.

Enjoy your ride to the splendid Dudhsagar Falls, followed by a visit to the Shanta Durga Temple.

Step away from the beach for the day and ride down to the spectacular Dudhsagar Falls, nestled between the states of Goa and Karnataka. The waterfall and popular picnic spot is also an excellent place for trekkers. Experienced ones should try the 14 km-long trek that starts from the Castle Rock Station in Karnataka. On your way back, pay a visit to the Shanta Durga Temple, dedicated to goddess Shantadurga, an avatar of Parvati.
